

Our advice

Always check...

- banknotes showing wear and tear and those received in poorly lit places
- several security features – don't rely on just one

If in doubt, compare the banknote with one you know to be genuine.

If you believe a banknote is counterfeit...

- do not pass it on – it is a criminal offence to keep it in circulation
- have its authenticity verified at the nearest police station or a bank

Counterfeit banknotes are seized without compensation
